

Prof. Yoon Woo Koh

Chair of Thyroid Committee of the Korean Society of Thyroid - Head & Neck Surgery

Prof Koh was an intern, resident and PH.D graduate in Otolaryngology Head and Neck Surgery at the Yonsei University College of Medicine, Seoul, Korea.

He further underwent fellowships in Head and Neck Surgery at the Yonsei University College of Medicine and at the Soon Chun Hyang University Bucheon Hospital, Bucheon, Korea.

In 2009-2010 Prof Koh obtained a Visiting scholarship at the Divisions of Endocrinology and Oncology at the Ohio State University College of Medicine in the United States.

Prof. Koh is the General Secretary (Director of General Affairs) of the Korean Society of Thyroid - Head & Neck Surgery as well as the General Secretary (Director of General Affairs) of “International Guild of Robotic and Endoscopic Head and Neck Surgery”.

Highlights of Prof. Koh's translational Research include: Discovering the mechanism of Drug (Targeted therapy and Chemotherapy) resistance; Molecular and Metabolic imaging; Development of Treatment Platform to overcome the Drug resistance.

Prof. Koh's clinical research projects focuses on:

1. Endoscopic & Robotic Thyroid and Parathyroid surgery via Retroauricular approach
2. Endoscopic & Robotic Neck Dissection via Retroauricular approach in HNSCC
3. Robot-assisted neck surgery (SMG excision, Neurogenic tumor excision, Sistrunk's operation) via Retroauricular approach